“My job is to be the one constant for my clients as we navigate the ever-changing legal landscape together.”

Working collaboratively with both peers and clients, Ingu routinely counsels employers concerning the full spectrum of labor and employment issues, from routine, everyday matters to organizational decisions. He also has experience handling economic development projects and foreign investments. His experience includes, but is not limited to:

- Employment handbooks and personnel policies
- Employee hiring, discipline, and termination
- Reductions in force
- Wage and hour audits
- Human resources audits
- Representation during Field Audits by the United States Department of Labor
- Representation during EEOC investigation
- Substance abuse policies and testing
- Workplace security and violence
- Leave of absence and attendance issues
- Garnishment issues
- Discrimination laws
- Disability, accommodation, and access
- Severance and termination agreements
- Sexual harassment and other employee investigations
- Management and employee training

Exposed to the legal side of business during his time working at Hyundai Motor Company in South Korea, Ingu has built his labor and employment law practice on his ability to empower and improve his client’s decision-making in the fast-paced business world. Prompt and responsive, he keeps clients in the know with
