“[Lindsey is] super organized, very thoughtful, very prepared and very thorough in analysis and communication. She’s awesome.” - Client Quote from Chambers USA

Lindsey is a partner in the firm’s Lending Practice Group and represents a variety of financial institutions, from regional and top-tier national banks, private equity groups, specialty lenders, and borrowers in a variety of industries, including health care, manufacturing, senior housing, retail, construction, technology, hospitality, education, and logistics. From structuring and negotiating financing transactions through to closing, her practice covers all forms of commercial finance, including acquisition financing, asset-based lending, equipment finance, C&I, cash flow lending, construction, real estate, syndicated loan transactions, and mezzanine finance, with typical deals ranging in size from $1 million to over $1 billion.

For Lindsey, the more complex the issue, the better. Following in her father’s footsteps, Lindsey pursued the legal profession and serves as a transactional lawyer in the commercial finance space. Solution-oriented, Lindsey capitalizes on her exceptionally responsive nature to protect her clients’ best interests. She is motivated by the intellectual challenges that come with each case and enjoys the smart, sophisticated people she has the privilege of engaging with every day. Proactively mitigating risks, Lindsey works diligently to create value for her clients.

When she can get away from the office, Lindsey likes to get away to the lake with her family, and also enjoys practicing yoga.

Lindsey earned her J.D. from the University of Georgia School of Law and her B.B.A. in Accounting from the University of Georgia Honors Program.
