

Burr & Forman Expands Across Southeast with Addition of 15 Attorneys

Firm News
11.21.2022

Burr & Forman LLP is pleased to announce the addition of 15 attorneys across the firm's footprint.

CEO Ed Christian commented on the new editions, "Burr remains committed to adding quality attorneys in tandem with client needs and we are excited to continue building the next generation of attorneys."

Four attorneys join the firm as Counsel in Birmingham, Alabama, Daniel Island and Myrtle Beach, South Carolina, and Nashville, Tennessee.

Whitney Sport McElroy joins the Nashville, Tennessee office as Counsel in the Lending Practice Group. She has a broad range of experience in real estate and lending including managing and closing real estate and business transactions, and identifying and resolving legal and title issues. Prior to joining Burr & Forman, Whitney worked as Managing Attorney for a multi-office title company, where she was responsible for facilitating and closing commercial and residential real estate transactions and drafting and reviewing closing and related financing documents. While in this role, she served as legal advisor to all of the title company's Tennessee offices.

Julie A. Oliver joins the Myrtle Beach, South Carolina office as Counsel in the Corporate and Tax Practice Group. She counsels clients in all areas of estate planning, including complex gift, generation skipping transfer tax, estate tax planning, lifetime giving and charitable planning, and prenuptial agreements. She also handles all aspects of probate and trust administration, including
